eighteenth century. It focuses on Egypt's evolution as a nation-state, dispelling common misconceptions about Egypt's modern history. Professor Goldschmidt calls upon recent Egyptian and Western scholarship to document political, economic, social, and cultural changes that occurred in Egypt's modern history. The book covers the period from the 1952 coup d'état of Field Marshal Muhammad Naguib and Prime Minister General Gamal Abdel Nasser to President Hosni Mubarak's resignation in 2011.

Modern Egypt - Fatima Mostafa Kansu - 2006-04-25

Following a spectacular upsurge in interest for Egyptian masters, Modern Egypt in Art explores the evolving discourses of art and culture that have defined and continue to redefine the nation and its art. This book contains a concise introduction to the history of Modern Egypt, from the late 18th century to the present day. It offers a comprehensive overview of the art and culture of Egypt, focusing on the major themes and developments of the past two centuries. The book examines the role of art in shaping the identity of Modern Egypt, and it explores the relationship between art and politics, religion, and society. It also considers the impact of international influences on Egyptian art and culture, and it traces the evolution of modern Egyptian art through various periods and styles. Finally, the book provides an introduction to the major artists and movements that have shaped the development of modern Egyptian art, including the artists of the Bauhaus, the Surrealists, and the Abstract Expressionists. This book is an essential resource for students of art and culture, as well as for anyone interested in the history and development of Modern Egypt.

This book is centered on Egypt's relatively early development as a nation and as a state and is written in language policy, from the Neolithic period to the present. It includes discussions of the major themes and developments of the past two centuries. In this passionate devotion to the task of inviting others to Islam, Muhammad al-Ghazali (1917-1996) presented Muslims with a powerful critique of themselves, not only in their endemic failure to project Islam in the best, most reasoned light, but also in their betrayal of the Qur'an's spiritual principles and the highest standard set by the Prophet Muhammad. This work analyzes al-Ghazali's critique of da'wah (inviting to Islam) and the practice of da'wah work itself (the call to Islam). It also examines his methodology, various proposed solutions, and the juristic responses to his perspective. The evolution of al-Ghazali's thought and the people and factors influencing him are key elements of the study. It is hard to conceive where the state of discourse on da'wah and Islamic reform would be without al-Ghazali's outstanding contributions. The powerful stand he took on the importance of education, the significant weight he gave to a free society, his promotion of a decent standard of living for the poor, the qualities of moral and personal excellence he appealed for, and his compassionate, impassioned role as an educator, all these preserve al-Ghazali's reputation, both in his own lifetime and for many generations to come, as one of the twentieth century's most important Muslim intellectual thinkers and reformers. His legacy is founded on a lifetime of service.

New Readings in Arabic Historiography from Late Medieval Egypt and Syria - Jo van Steenbergen - 2021
"New Readings in Arabic Historiography contributes to research on Arabic texts of history from late medieval Egypt and Syria. Departing from dominant understandings of these texts through the prisms of authenticity and "literarization," it engages with questions of textual constructiveness and authorial agency. This edited volume consists of 13 contributions by a new generation of scholars. Each of the volume's three parts represents a different aspect of their new readings of particular texts. Part one looks at concrete instances of textual interdependencies, part two at the creativity of authorial agencies, and part three at the relationship between texts and social practice. New Readings thus participates in the revaluation of late medieval Arabic historiography as a critical field of inquiry. Contributors: Rasmus Bech Olsen, Víctor de Castro León, Mohammad Gharaibeh, Kenneth A. Goudie, Christian Mauder, Zacharie Mochtari de Pierrepont, Clément Onimus, Tarek Sabraa, Iria Santás de Arcos, Gowaart Van Den Bossche, Koby Yosef."

Practicing Sufism - Abdelmajid Hannoum - 2016-07-15
Islam in Africa is deeply connected with Sufism, and the history of Islam is in a significant way a history of Sufism. Yet even within this continent, the practice and role of Sufism varies across the regions. This interdisciplinary volume brings together histories and experiences of Sufism in various parts of Africa, offering case studies on several countries that include Morocco, Algeria, Senegal, Egypt, Sudan, Mali, and Nigeria. It uses a variety of methodologies ranging from the hermeneutical, through historiographic to ethnographic, in a comprehensive examination of the politics and performance of Sufism in Africa. While the politics of Sufism pertains largely to historical and textual analysis to highlight paradigms of sanctity in different geographical areas in Africa, the aspect of performance adopts a decidedly ethnographic approach, combining history, history of art and discourse analysis. Together, analysis of these two aspects reveals the many faces of Sufism that have remained hitherto hidden. Furthering understanding of the African Islamic religious scene, as well as contributing to the study of Sufism worldwide, this volume is of key interest to students and scholars of Middle Eastern, African and Islamic studies.
