

Ben Grumbles is President of the U.S. Water Alliance, an educational nonprofit, based in Washington, D.C., and working to unite people and policy for water sustainability throughout America.

www.uswateralliance.org

Ben served as EPA Assistant Administrator for Water from 2004 to 2009. He was also environmental counsel and senior staff member on water and science subcommittees and committees in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1985 to 2002. He ran Arizona's air, water, and waste programs in 2009 and 2010 as Director of the Department of Environmental Quality. He's a member of Virginia's State Water Control Board and the National Academy of Sciences' Water Science and Technology Board. He has a Masters in Environmental Law from GW Law School. He lives in the Spout Run Watershed of the Potomac River and roots for the Louisville Cardinals, NCAA Men's Division One Basketball Champions in 2013.