

Starting in June, Linda Tsang will be a Legislative Attorney for the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress. She will be analyzing legal questions related to environmental, energy, and constitutional law. Most recently, Ms. Tsang was the Director of Climate and Air Quality at the American Forest & Paper Association (AF&PA). Prior to joining AF&PA, she was an attorney at Beveridge & Diamond, P.C., focused on regulatory compliance with Clean Air Act regulations. Prior to law school, Ms. Tsang was an environmental engineer at EPA where she worked to implement safe drinking water regulations. In addition, she was a project manager for Environmental Defense Fund, engaging leading companies in corporate partnerships to improve environmental performance.

She earned her J.D. from Vermont Law School, graduating magna cum laude, and her B.S. in Environmental Engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. She is the co-chair of the D.C. Bar Environmental, Energy, and Natural Resources steering committee and a Council member of the ABA Section on Environment, Energy and Resources. Ms. Tsang is a member of the Supreme Court of the United States Bar, Massachusetts State Bar and the District of Columbia Bar.
