

Adam Riedel

Adam Riedel received his J.D. and an M.A. in Environmental Science and Policy from Duke University. Following law school, he joined the Environmental Practice Group at Davis Polk & Wardwell, LLP in New York. In 2011 he left Davis Polk to serve as the Associate Director of the Sabin Center from Climate Change Law at Columbia Law School. Following his time at Columbia, Adam was a senior associate in the Environmental and Natural Resources practice group at Manatt, Phelps & Phillips, LLP in Washington. At Manatt, his practice focused on enforcement and litigation, compliance counseling, and contaminated property cleanup and remediation. In August, Adam will join the Institute for Public Representation at Georgetown Law School as a supervising attorney and clinical fellow.