

Craig Zamuda, Ph.D.,
Senior Policy Advisor, U.S. Department of Energy

Craig Zamuda is a senior policy advisor for Climate and Environmental Analysis in the U.S. Department of Energy's (DOE) Office of Energy Policy and Systems Analysis, and provides policy and technical advice on energy technology development and deployment programs related to climate change and energy security. Dr. Zamuda represents DOE in domestic and international fora for the advancement of climate change resilience activities, including the White House Council on Climate Preparedness and Resilience, and the Interagency Infrastructure Resilience Working Group. He served as a lead author on the report "U.S. Energy Sector Vulnerabilities to Climate Change and Extreme Weather" (available at <http://energy.gov/downloads/us-energy-sector-vulnerabilities-climate-change-and-extreme-weather>) that examines current and potential impacts of climate change and extreme weather on the energy sector and potential opportunities to enhance climate preparedness and resilience. Dr. Zamuda has over 30 years of experience with DOE, the US Environmental Protection Agency, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, and the U.S. House of Representatives.
